Guidelines on extra exam dates

Students who plan to graduate in December but still must pass a few exams can request an extra exam date from the teachers. Each teacher will evaluate the requests and is free to comply with them or not.

In particular, the Teaching Council considers as reasonable the requests falling under the following conditions:

- The exam is for a third-year course.
- The requesting student passed all exams except one or two.

Note that the teacher has the final word, and they may refuse independently on the abovementioned conditions.

Those who want to request an extra exam date must send a request by email to the course teacher, including all the information about his current status (in particular, the list of exams left).

Extra dates are typically set in November, so make your request on time. Only students who have completed the third year of the Bachelor's degree can take the exams on the extra dates.
